British Government Slowly Conquering Maternal Mortality

Dame Janet Campbell Tells Medical Society of Work Accomplished

CLINICS ESTABLISHED

Death Rate of Approximately 5 Per 1000 Still Too High

DESCRIBING the different means adopted in England to overcome maternal mortality and the Government aid given to the mother during childbirth, Dame Janet Campbell, world-famous authority on maternal subjects, last night spoke to an audience of prominent medical men and of McGill undergraduates assembled in the Medical Building at a regular meeting of the McGill Medical Society. She advocated more hospital care for the mother, and a greater organization of the medical profession to combat the high death rate amongst women while giving birth.

The British Government, Dame Campbell said, has established a Ministry of Health bureau which handles maternal cases only, and whose endeavour it is to improve existing conditions and render whatever help it can to the mother, both before childbirth and after. This department, created under the Maternity and Child Welfare Act of 1918, places in the hands of local authorities full power to further all work in connection with maternity, and as an inducement, the Government will pay one-half the cost of any project undertaken by responsible parties throughout the country. Thus many hospitals and clinics have been built, and much practical progress achieved. Particularly, the Government has received much valuable constructive criticism from practising physicians, who are in a position to recommend improvements in service.

Prevent Deaths
Discussing her main subject, "Some Practical Problems in Obstetrics," Dame Campbell stated that at least half the deaths occurring now from childbirth could and should be prevented. Fighting against these deaths, prenatal clinics had been founded, and more and better hospital care given the patient. The system of mid-wifery in England, she said, is practically an institution, and "the mid-wife in England is a trained woman," who generally is a graduate nurse. More women were sent to hospitals here than in England as a result of the mid-wifery custom there.

One important factor of late years, the speaker related, was that the financially-hampered mother was being looked after in a far better manner than ever in the past. This should be further improved, and therefore, not only for this but other purposes, money

XY Club Will Hear Dr. Hatcher Tonight

THE XY Club, representing new students at the university, will have as its guest Dr. Hatcher of the Department of Chemistry, who will address them tonight after the six o'clock supper meeting. Dr. Hatcher will speak on a subject of his own choice. The meeting is being held in Strathcona Hall in the office of Murray Brooks.

The members of the Club and their guest will have supper in the Pit. The purpose of the Club is to bring about a more cordial understanding and acquaintance between professors and students in an atmosphere away from the lecture-room. The XY is the parent body of the XY, most of undergraduates having come from that association. Many students have turned out to date, and growth has been rapid.

Colonel Von Stoopnagle Embarks For Canada

(Special from Busby Stoop-Pants England)

WORD has been received that Col. Von Stoopnagle, the local patriarch, centenarian and owner of Stoop Hall has just left for Canada. His sudden departure on such a journey at his age is made all the more remarkable by the fact that this is the first time in ninety-nine years that the Colonel has left his ancestral home. Local gossip has it that the land-louse is up, but your special correspondent, with his usual tact and winchfulness has devined the true cause.

The secret came out on the dock at Liverpool where your reporter noticed the Colonel deep in conversation with George Bernard Shaw. Words of great wisdom were falling from under the

Sociological Society Discusses Problems Of Land Settlement

"THE Problems of Land Settlement" with special emphasis on the aspects of community development are to be discussed by Eva Young at the special meeting of the Sociological Society which is being held in Strathcona Hall next Friday at 8 o'clock.

Colonel Bovey, Director of Extra-Mural Relations, Professor Culliton, of the department of Economics and Professor Lattimer of the School of Agriculture at Macdonald College are also expected to address the gathering.

In view of the fact that problems of land settlement are the subject of intensive discussion and thought as a possible cure for unemployment today it is felt that a discussion of this topic at McGill will prove of interest to a large number of students outside of the Sociological Department.

Maccabean Group Studies Literature

Mordecai Etzioni Leads Members in Active Discussion

HASKALAH MOVEMENT

Dr. A. L. Sachar, U. of Illinois History Professor, Speaker at Sunday Meeting

"Trends in Modern Hebrew and Jewish Literature" occupied the attention of the study group of the Maccabean Circle on Friday evening last, in the Union Grill Room, when Mordecai Etzioni, of second year Medicine, led the discussion.

The speaker introduced the topic by referring to the middle of the nineteenth century when the important Haskalah movement was in progress in Hebrew and Jewish literary circles. This step towards progress and the advancement of literature brought about different results in many parts of the globe. He then traced modern literary thought and expression through its various dissimilar phases and moods up to the present day. Now vital forms of literature are being produced, both in Hebrew and in Jewish. The outline was only superficial but it was sufficient to illustrate a sense of the spirit and emotional value which characterized trends of the movement. Members of the group took part in the discussion and were given an opportunity to express their views on the subject.

The next meeting of the group will be a dinner-lecture at the Y.M.H.A. on Sunday evening. Dr. A. L. Sachar, Professor of History at the University of Illinois and Director of B'Nai B'rith Hillel Foundation in the same State, will give a lecture, the subject of which has not yet been announced. Tickets are on sale by the following students: A. Gruber, A. Crellenstein, E. Crellenstein, F. Cohen, H. Cramel and several other members of the Maccabean Circle.

McGill Stamp Club

All stamp-collectors are invited to the regular meeting of the Stamp Club to be held at 8 o'clock in the Union Music Room. All members are requested to attend as their absence has been conspicuous. They are further reminded that the success of a meeting depends upon the number of philatelists that turn up.

A special feature of this meeting is an invitation to all past stamp-collectors who desire to sell their collections especially those who possess British Colonials to attend. A period will be set aside for the disposal of their stamps on a cash basis.

Electrical Students Inspect Shawinigan Industrial Concerns

Electricians Guest of Water and Power Company

FOUR PLANTS VISITED

Visitors Entertained by Dance at Cascade Inn Friday Evening

SHAWINIGAN turned out en masse last Thursday evening to welcome about twenty senior students in Electrical Engineering, who had come down to inspect the Power stations and industrial plants located there. The trip was arranged by the Electrical Engineering Department and the Electrical Club of McGill with Mr. Schippel of the Electrical staff, accompanying the students and organizing the visits. The students, while in Shawinigan, were the guests of the Shawinigan Water and Power Co.

The first evening was spent in a comprehensive survey of the town. Several vocal competitions were held with the local singers, but the Electrical Glee Club usually emerged victorious. It is rumored that several of the students have been signed up by a representative of the Metropolitan Opera Co. who happened to be in Shawinigan at the time. The Electrical Glee Club's rendition of "Sweet Adeline" is something that will linger long in the memory of the natives of Shawinigan.

Power Plant Visited
On Friday morning the group visited the Shawinigan Power House where they inspected the two Power plants, the old 30 cycle, and the newer 60 cycle station. The general layout of the plant was explained in detail, and a description was given of the general transmission system and the manner in which the various power plants of the Shawinigan Co. were interconnected.

An inspection of the premises of both the Belgo Paper Co., and the Stainless Steel Co. followed. At the former mill the whole process of the manufacture of paper could be seen, literally from tree to newspaper. At the Stainless Steel Co. many of the engineers had their first glimpse of the pouring of steel.

A dance at the Cascade Inn on Friday evening was arranged by one of the visiting students, who had several connections in Shawinigan. It was enthusiastically and vociferously attended by all.

The engineers made their last official inspection trip on Saturday morning to the carbide plant located in that town. The huge electrical furnaces, in particular, were objects of special interest.

Entertainment on the trip took the form of an interesting medley of representative songs of Newfoundland and Canada. The success of this trip has furthered the desire to organize similar trips for the future.

Women's Canadian Club Holds Contest

Hundred Dollar Prize Offered For One Act Play

One hour, one act plays are sought in a competition, announced by the Women's Canadian Club, and open to all amateur and professional writers throughout the Dominion, the best play to receive a prize of one hundred dollars.

The contest closes on March 1st, 1935, and all entries must be sent by registered mail to the Women's Canadian Club, 69 Bloor St. E. Ontario by that date.

Rules require three typewritten copies to be sent in, each copy must be signed with a writer's pseudonym. The real name and address of the author should be enclosed in three separate envelopes, on which will appear the writer's pseudonym, one for each copy. The writer's identity must not be disclosed on the manuscript by any name or mark or it will be disqualified. The decision of the judges will be final and the winning play may be produced in Toronto.

Spanish Club Meets

Professor Sugars to Deliver Lecture on Old Madrid

An illustrated lecture on "Old Madrid" will be given at the meeting of the Spanish Club this evening, at 8:15, in the Grill Room of the Union. Professor Sugars, Director-Secretary of the School of Commerce and Honorary President of the Club, will give the address.

In case of Professor Sugars' continued illness, the lecture will be cancelled and an ordinary business meeting held.

Dr. John R. Mott To Address S.C.M. At Supper Meeting

"THE Present World Situation and its Implications for McGill Students" is the topic which Dr. John R. Mott, founder of the World's Student Christian Movement, will discuss at the next supper meeting of the S.C.M. to be held in Strathcona Hall, Thursday evening at 6.15 o'clock.

Dr. Mott, who visited McGill in 1930, is considered well qualified to discuss this topic as he has had a varied life and has travelled extensively. One of his interests is the various problems which confront students and their solution. At the present time he is the chairman of the International Missionary Council and head of the World's Alliance of Y.M.C.A. in New York.

The tickets for the supper may be obtained at Strathcona Hall at the price of thirty-five cents.

McGill Annual Plans Progressing Steadily

Contest Planned For Campus Life Section

PHOTOGRAPHS NEEDED

"Old McGill '35" Promised Month Earlier Than Usual

If plans which are afoot can be realized the "Campus Life" section of the Annual will this year reach proportions hitherto unknown. In order to encourage the amateur photographers about the campus to make their contributions to this section, the Annual Board are sponsoring a contest, the teams of which will be announced within the next few days and which will commence next week.

There is particularly a need for photographs of amusing situations of campus figures. After the meeting of the Board, which will take place at the end of the week the prizes which will be offered will be announced. There will also be many helpful hints for the contestants, as to the type of pictures required, made known shortly.

Available April 1st
It is hoped by those in charge that they will be able to get the Annual out about April 1st this year. This date is about a month earlier than usual.

Saturday was the last day for handing in the biography forms. The majority of the students graduating this year have already had their pictures taken for the Annual but there are still about 75 who will have to do so before December 1st, which is the last day for this.

Many of the group photographs have also been taken but there are several yet to be handed in. These however have ten days longer than the graduates for this purpose, as the closing date is December 10th. Notices of appointments for these have been appearing in the Daily throughout the last week and will continue to do so until the date of closing.

The lists to be signed by the students authorizing the Annual Board to deduct the cost of the Annual from their caution money, are posted on the notice boards of the various buildings. The price of the Annual is $4. Many have already taken advantage of this means of obtaining their copy.

Revised Nomination List Given In Part

Scarlet Key Society Elections on December 5th

In the list of nominations for the Scarlet Key Society, which appeared in yesterday's "Daily" there were several errors. The names are listed below in corrected form. Nominations this year are twenty in excess of last year's total of eighty-seven. Voting takes place December 5th in all the faculty buildings. Only junior men in the various faculties can be nominated each year. There are usually, as is the case this year, several acclamations. The Scarlet Key Society is an honorary society whose members entertain visiting teams and students representing other universities on behalf of McGill students, who elect them to represent them. The Society acts, in other words, as a welcoming board and official go-between for students and public.

Pre-Stressing Isle Of Orleans Bridge Cables Discussed

McGill Graduates Speak at Meeting of Engineers

JOINT PAPER READ

Interesting Engineering Operations Take Place During Period of Construction

THE pre-stressing of the cables for the Isle of Orleans Bridge was the subject of a joint paper by Messrs. L. Jehu and P. E. Savage, read at a meeting of the Junior Section of the Montreal Branch of the Engineering Institute of Canada, held last night at the Branch Headquarters at 2050 Mansfield.

Mr. Jehu and Mr. Savage, who are both graduates of McGill University in Civil Engineering, and who both obtained the degree of M. Eng. in 1934, are in the employ of the Dominion Bridge Company at Lachine, and were actively engaged on the work which they described.

General Description

The first speaker, Mr. Jehu, gave a general description of the Isle of Orleans Bridge. He accompanied his speech with some interesting lantern slides. Mr. Savage, who also employed slides to illustrate his subject, described the actual process of pre-stressing the cables with considerable technical detail.

The object of pre-stressing, it was explained, is to take out the slackness due to manufacturing. The cables, which measure 2468 feet in length, face to face in their sockets, were fixed in a horizontal trough and subjected to a load of 120,000 pounds. As the working stress during actual use is only 75,000 pounds, this is an example of the precautions which had to be taken in construction. The length of the strands had, of course to be unvaried, and so very careful calculations were necessary to determine the amount of stretch that would take place. A very interesting machine for measuring the stretch was described by Mr. Savage.

The work was all carried out at night, in order that a mean temperature might be observed without the disturbing influence of the sun. A pre-stressing period of thirty minutes was specified, although it was found that all the actual stretching took place within ten minutes.

The chairman during the meeting was Mr. G. A. Alain.

Anniversary Friday Of Principal's Death

Sir Arthur Currie Died November 30th, 1933

The death of Sir Arthur Currie, late Principal of McGill, who died here in the city last November 30th, will be quietly remembered on the campus Friday. Although, as far as can be ascertained, no public ceremony is planned, the date of Sir Arthur's demise will undoubtedly be the occasion of solemn mourning, since it is considered by the authorities that this type of tribute, far superior to all blatant outbursts of sorrow, shows the deepest respect to the memory of the man who served Canada in war and peace.

Sir Arthur entered the Ross Memorial Hospital on November 7th, and lingered in a state of severe illness until the last day of the month. He was buried December 6th in Mount Royal Cemetery, on which day the greatest funeral parade in Canadian History took place. It is possible that church services will be held throughout the city on Friday.

Announcement has been made that there will be no holiday on Thursday.

Labour Club To Discuss Marxist Principles Tonight

THOSE attending the meeting of the Labour Club this evening in Strathcona Hall, at 8.15, will be privileged to hear an address by Mr. Michael Buhy, on "The Elements of Marxism." Meetings of the Labour Club are open to all McGill students who are interested in modern labour problems and theories.

Mr. Buhy is connected with the Workers' Educational Institute, where he is delivering a series of lectures on Marxism and allied subjects. He is a student of Marxism and has travelled considerably in following up this branch of study.

Marxism is a subject of especial interest to the development of student opinions in socialism today, just as the doctrines of Karl Marx have always been the object of discussion and practice, and it is expected many will be interested.

Jewish Drive For Charity Progresses

Arts and Science Leads List With Highest Contributions

REPORTS INCOMPLETE

Jewish Federation Oldest of its Kind in Montreal

Twenty-six dollars is the total amount collected towards an objective of $275 for the Jewish Charities Drive which was launched yesterday. Arts leads with a contribution of $10.50, followed by Medicine with $8.00, Engineering with $5.00, and Commerce with only $2.50.

The objective this year is $25.00 more than that of last year, since the total objective for the city has been increased ten per cent. This increase is necessitated, as conditions are worse this year than usual in poverty stricken homes of Montreal.

It is pointed out that the Jewish Federation was the first of its kind in Montreal, having been organized seventeen years ago. At present, it includes such institutions as: The Family Welfare Department, The Orphan's Home, The Sinai Institute, The Neighbourhood House, and many other organizations of this kind.

The committee in charge of the collections in the university are as follows: Edgar Cohen, Chairman; Gerald Bronfman, and Phil Vineberg. The Faculty Representatives and objectives are: Arts and Science — Ben Schechter — $25.00; Commerce — Rebecca Ein — $25.00; Medicine — Isidore Dubin — $44.00; R.V.C. — Beatrice Klineberg — $40.00; Dentistry — Bernard Rubin — $13.00; Architecture — Max Roth — $12.00; Law — Leon Rubin — $10.00; Engineering — Leonard Kirsch — $23.00; Graduate School — $10.00.

So far, R.V.C., Dentistry, Architecture, and Law have not reported, but are urged to do so daily through their class chairman and Faculty representatives, as it is necessary to keep the reports up to date.

Lecture On Physics

Dr. Douglas to Speak Next Tuesday

"The Outer World" is the title of a lecture to be delivered by Dr. A. Vibert Douglas in the Macdonald Physics Laboratory next Tuesday at 8:30 p.m. This will be the seventh lecture of a series now being given by eight members of the Staff of the Physics Department. Dr. Douglas is a lecturer in Astrophysics.

By arrangement with the McGill University Department of Extra-Mural Relations, members of the Royal Astronomical Society of Canada may attend the lecture.

Hip Hooray! Jingle Bells! Santa's Here To Stay!

JINGLE bells! Jingle bells! Santa Claus, still possessing "a little round belly that shakes when he laughs like a bowlful of jelly" has met the public gaze. Drawn by Ritzen, Dixon and perhaps Winken, Blinken and Nod, he has come out of his igloo, descended from the far north and made his 1934 debut in Montreal, along with all the other little Debs.

And what a debut! Elephants, monkeys and all kinds of great big terrible animals, and lots and lots of little ones too. Now don't say that you didn't see Eaton's parade on Saturday morning. It's a lie! One professor was heard to say that he was thinking of having a Santa Claus parade every day, before his 9 o'clocks, so that everybody would

Insurance Schemes For Unemployment Of Great Necessity

British System Outlined by Professor MacLean

STATE PAYS SHARE

New Training Plan Meets With Great Success in England

"THE Government, the employer, and the employee each have a burden of responsibility in providing the sums of money used in unemployment insurance in Great Britain," stated Professor Neil B. MacLean, in an address on "Unemployment and Unemployment Insurance," rendered before the Men's Club of Dominion-Douglas church last night. Professor MacLean first showed how unemployment had been from early times a burden and menace to society. The speaker then classified the types of unemployment, asserting that technological and depressional kinds were the most serious.

As soon as unemployment appeared, charity was called on as the most immediate cure. Afterwards, extensive building programs were approved. Also unemployed were transferred from one section of the country suffering depression to a more prosperous area.

First Attack

But the first systematic method against hard times was the British National Employment Insurance Act. Under this system, the state has paid an increasing amount of the huge sums necessary to carry it on. In order to apply for this insurance, the worker must prove himself willing to work, and without possible employment, while the state must show that the worker refused employment before it can withhold the insurance. The Dole began in 1921, was a system of transitional benefit, designed to aid through sudden depression, those workers who had not subscribed to the regular insurance plan, and thus were not eligible for its benefits. The whole organization was administered by the Board of Trade; when it became necessary to distribute emergency relief, this organization, already existing, was used. Italy, Belgium, Switzerland and Germany followed Britain with similar plans about 1925. In the German plan more responsibility rests on the employer.

The highest development so far is the British Unemployment Act in 1924, which not only provides for a new system of payments of unemployment assistance, but also for educational training for future employment. This training has benefited about 160,000 men and women, with forestry camps and training schools. The people who are being taught under this system heartily approve of it. Thus the British plan has become a model for the rest of the world.

Ticket Sales Alone Stall Junior Prom

JUNIOR Prom preparations, the executive announces, have now reached the stage where only the tickets remain to be sold, and even they are slowly being distributed amongst the undergraduates of the various faculties. It is rumored that the ballroom in the Windsor will be decorated as a Hollywood set, and novel plans are already practically complete.

The Prom Committee has been busily engaged of late in all details concerning the dance, and they advise that tickets be secured without delay in order that there be no difficulty at the last minute. They furthermore imply that he and she who may be so unfortunate as to miss the Prom, will find that it will later be a 'Prom regret' with them.

We Bow Our Heads In Shame

WE have been reproached so bitterly and so often since we published a few words on the Modern Sin, that we feel almost like one of the 'villainous villains' so popular in the old time melodramas. Every time we walk down the street, we have a feeling that some little debutante may pop out in front of us and say, "You were the one that put an end to our innocent little pleasures." Wherefore once again we bow our heads in deep contrition.

But still waters run deep; what is within will out. Debutante coming out parties are all very well within reason; but some of the extravaganzas which are given to introduce the little girl to the world, are neither within bounds nor reason. When we were very little children we were taught, that, "Self control is the hallmark of good breeding." Alas, we might say with Virgil, "O Tempora, O Mores"; alas those days are no more.

Today father stands the racket; he meets the guests in a brand new suit on which the first instalment has been paid; he knows not when, how or where the rest will come from. God is merciful. He greets the guests, with a smile on his face, while inwardly he shudders to think of the bill he will have to foot for the glassware broken by clumsy visitors, and the strings of fear tug at his heart. He, his wife, and his daughter, stand and shake hands with countless young men whom they have never seen before, do not know, and whom probably they will never see again. If needs be one's daughter must be placed on the auction block like slaves in the days of Rome or unenlightened Carthage, well and good; if it is merely a husband that is sought, why go to all this trouble. Would it not be far more practical to save the money that might be spent upon a coming-out party, and to put it away in the old sock, and at the right time to dangle it before the eyes of a likely son-in-law as an extra inducement?

Christmas

THE mad scramble of more than a month's duration which has come to be known as the Christmas rush is bearing down on us again with an ever increasing force. Long past, it seems, are the days when Christmas meant a season of good fellowship and good cheer featuring a mammoth Christmas dinner, family reunions, the sending of a few cards and the expression of innumerable good wishes.

Today Christmas is an ordeal. Tremendous throngs consisting of people all intent upon doing the right thing, go milling around from store to store to impress Aunt Sophie that they haven't forgotten her and that they are still able to remember their kin at Christmas time whether there is enough bread in the bread box or not.

The commercialization of Christmas is something which is rightly denounced despite the fact that this commercialization may lead to an improvement in business which is reflected in employment statistics throughout the country. It must be remembered that a large amount of this increased employment is under the most unfavourable of circumstances and also that a lesser activity in all lines is to be expected during the late fall and mid winter seasons as a result of a commercialized Christmas.

The tremendous importance placed upon Christmas presents not only puts many parents in an embarrassing position but also tempts many to sacrifice more important things in order that little Johnnie gets his fire-engine which will last until Christmas night or New Year's Eve at best. In addition the Santa Claus myth, which was such an integral part of the Christmas spirit seems to have become the most confusing thing any child could be brought up against. No longer is the question of "Is there a Santa Claus?" the subject of speculation but rather "Which is THE Santa Claus?" is the problem of the modern child.

The Jewish Charities

ALTHOUGH having as their objective a larger sum than last year, and holding their campaign immediately after two other charity drives, the Jewish Charities are making a worthwhile effort to contribute their share towards the relief of the poor in this city, and will undoubtedly go over the top in due time. Meanwhile the campaign continues, and any students who can possibly give to this cause will be spending their money in the succour of the needy, against which neither religious nor racial barriers can stand. The poor come first. In the words of the campaigners, "Your pity won't help them — your generosity will!"

The Bookshelf

RIGHT HO, JEEVES, by P. G. Wodehouse. McClelland and Stewart, Limited, Toronto. Price $2.00.

ONCE AGAIN Wodehouse brings us that amazing pair, Bertie Wooster, the world's greatest ass fountain of inanity, and champion bungler, and his infatigable valet Jeeves, the world's greatest gentleman, fountain of philosophy and wisdom, and champion fixer, and once again all lovers of clean, refreshing humour of this kind laugh uproariously at their exploits.

Bertie once more has a slight difference of opinion with Jeeves on a matter of evening clothes, and decides to undertake to fix his friends' tangled romances himself instead of leaving it to Jeeves. How he tries to do so and only succeeds in making matters worse and worse until finally Jeeves comes to the rescue forms the theme of this screamingly funny book.

Among other things Bertie undertakes to propose to a woman on behalf of his friend, one Gussie Fink-Nottle, whose only interest is in the life-habits of news, and merely succeeds in making her believe that he is proposing on his own behalf. Then he is in trouble! And so matters go on getting worse and worse, and the story gets funnier and funnier, especially when Fink-Nottle has to make a speech at the prize-giving at a country school and gets stuck in his endeavours to "buck himself up" for it, with hilarious results.

In the end, of course, Jeeves fixes everything and Bertie, after great mental suffering, has to give in and admit that as usual Jeeves is right.

There can be no doubt about it—Wodehouse is one of our funniest writers today. He never writes a bad book; it is impossible to say this is his best, but I will say that it is inferior to none, and that is sufficient to guarantee any reader a very enjoyable evening—no problems to think out, no psychology, no depth of reasoning or beauty of verbiage, but sheer entertainment which carries one on from one chuckle to another and leaves one feeling thoroughly at peace with the world when at last the book is regretfully tossed aside.

A. A. M. W.

COURAGEOUS WOMEN, by L. M. Montgomery, Marian Keith, and Mabel Burns McKinley. McClelland and Stewart, Limited, Toronto. Pp. 203. Price $1.50.

L. M. MONTGOMERY, Marian Keith, and Mabel Burns McKinley wrote in conjunction "Courageous Women," containing several "inspiring biographies of girls who grew to be women of courage and achievement." These three autobiographies are well known writers of women's and children's books, particularly the former, who is famous for the "Anne Shirley" series. A few of the stories, such as "Joan of Arc" and "Florence Nightingale," are familiar to us, but most of them deal with obscure figures, and give us an insight into the lives of women who deserve to be recognized.

The biographies are simply and clearly written, and would be of greater interest to young people in their early teens, than to more mature minds. The stories deal largely with Canadian women, some of whom are not very well known and they are thus brought into prominence. The most interesting tales amongst them are "Queen Victoria," "Joan of Arc," "Edith Cavell," and "Caroline Macdonald."

"Courageous Women" would make an excellent Christmas present for a young child, especially a girl.

Music Review

The Montreal Orchestra

ON SUNDAY NIGHT the Montreal Orchestra presented a very interesting and well balanced programme and did it all with justice in the performance. The evening commenced with a Bach Overture in D for an orchestra of strings three trumpets two oboes and timpani. The Overture here might be also well termed a suite. It opens with a strong slow movement, which later gives way to a quick contrapuntal section scored Vivace. The second movement is an Air; and it is this lovely simple melody that is so often heard in the popular transposition as "Air for the G String." This particular portion was excellently handled by the strings. Then Bach introduces the dance forms; and two stately Gavottes follow. These also are often heard as separate selections apart from the original suite. A Bourree and a Gigue complete the Overture with a great deal of work for the trumpets. The Overture was well played, especially the Air; and well received.

Continuing in the classic vein, Dr. Clarke presented an interesting little composition of sixteenth century vintage. It is known as The Leaves Be Greene with the explanatory note "A Browning for string orchestra" and was composed by William Byrd. The selection is in classic form of the Madrigal School of the period. The melody is simple and stately and is presented over and over by various sections of the strings, emphasizing the song origin. It is a most delightful little selection, although the reaction of the audience to this early work was a little doubtful. It is interesting to note that the scoring used by the orchestra is that of the original form.

Here the orchestra completely forsook the beauties of form, and turned to music that is strong in emotion, and which does not place importance on the how as much as the what. Wagner's melodically beautiful Sigfried Idyll was next heard; the string harmonies contrasting sharply with those of the preceding works. The material for this selection consists in the main of love motives from the music drama Sigfried. There is something intensely personal in this beautifully woven structure; although the emotions contained are universal. The selection opens with a beautiful melody for the strings known as the "Melody of Peace." Several other themes concern themselves with various manifestations of the love motif, and interspersed, a cradle song. The work is noted for its unusual and strong harmony mostly for the strings.

The symphonic offering for the evening was the emotionally tremendous Cesar Franck D Minor creation. Decidedly modern, this work now enjoys a popularity that is recent. The symphony does not consider form very greatly, and indeed, one is often under the impression that the composer reaches for something, finds a tiny fragment and brings it forth to life in all its glory. Franck was an organist, and this is quite apparent in this work, both in the orchestration and in the manner of the climaxes, which one can well imagine roaring forth from a mighty organ. The opening movement is scored Lento; Allegro non troppo; and contains several strong melodic strains, of which the orchestra made the most. All in all, this opening movement is rather a tremendous assignment for both orchestra and audience.

The second movement, Allegretto, opens with a tune suggested pizzicato by the strings which reappears after a second subject repeated by all the instruments. The whole movement is quiet and reflective. A vigorous finale completes this well known work, which seems at times almost ruthless in its use of emotional color. Dr. Clarke performed an excellent bit of work in his handling of the orchestral contrasts in this number, bringing the utmost from the orchestra in several instances and producing a splendid reading of this unusual symphony.

PEN PORTRAITS BY ANALYST

Panny-Gerry-Cuss:

THIS young chap must have a sort of dual personality... for, reading his weekly column, which knocks anything and everything in an effort to be amusing, he arouses anger, hatred, and even contempt... he has more enemies, perhaps, than most any other single person on the campus... and yet, seeing him in charge of the Daily, the picture is altogether a different one... he is efficient, courteous, and even good-humoured, encouraging people to work... still, one cannot deny that he has too high an opinion of himself and too low an opinion of others... he has his fair share of looks, yet spoils it all by an almost perpetual scowl that lingers on his face... somehow, one wishes that he were less anxious to fill up his column and more careful not to ride roughshod over people's feelings...

General Manager:

HIS very nice... oh, so nice... that's the trouble... too much of a good thing... he is so self-effacing, so obliging and gentlemanly, that one wishes he had a few vices thrown in for good measure... at least, 't would make him more colourful... one wonders how any young man gets that way, whether by nature or through the lack of nerve to be otherwise... and one wonders, too, how he will fare in the legal profession, which is plenty tough... anyway, he's missing lots of fun, and should snap out of it... a smart, sophisticated young lady might help... besides being a rather pleasant form of diversion...

Theatre Review

Cinema de Paris

THIS WEEK the Cinema de Paris, presents as its feature attraction "Police," starring Constant Remy and Marie Belle. The film opens with a burst of music and dancing as the Ski Cabaret is featured. Constant Remy as the clown is master of ceremonies and begins to make a good job of it. Unfortunately for all concerned he sees his beloved dancing with somebody else and immediately the flames of jealousy burst forth in majestic splendour. The remainder of the film is devoted to a long and uninteresting study of the everlasting triangle. Marie Belle, as the person who is sought after, manages to swing her hips and expose her knees in a manner appropriate to the occasion. Needless to say, the picture closes as Constant and Marie, arm in arm, fade in the distance in a permanent reconciliation.

As an added attraction the theatre has on the screen a film made in Canada which portrays the route travelled by the French Mission to Canada this summer while celebrating the four hundredth anniversary of the arrival of Jacques Cartier to this land. The film, which is far from technically perfect, is replete with bands, speeches and flag-waving of all descriptions. The most disappointing feature of the entire presentation is that the last shot one sees is a view of the Stars and Stripes of American. And yet the apparent purpose of the film is to glorify Canada.

A very interesting news or European affairs and an animated cartoon complete a program which is certainly not the best to the credit of his theatre.

Dear Anybody-Who-Cares,
c/o The Editor,
The McGill Daily.

As a right-thinking debutante, I will have you to understand that I shall not lie down under the villainous assault perpetrated on us girls in the Editorial columns of The Daily yesterday. Furthermore, I shall not stand for it. So I shall assume my only other position, namely sitting down.

You apparently think we debutantes spend a lot of money. I ask you, Mister Anybody-Who-Cares, did you ever take one of us? Out, I mean. Ask the man who has. As for your thousands of common people walking the streets, I would have you to understand that any of them who can borrow an evening suit, would be welcomed with open arms to our parties this year.

If I had a brother, you would pay dearly for your brutality. Does nobody love us girls?

Yours truly,
"DEB" U. TONTAY.

Editor,
McGill Daily.
Dear Sir,—

On Thursday Prince George is to be wed to Princess Marina. Early last week the Catholic institutions decreed a holiday for all public and high schools and the University of Montreal.

This was followed by a declaration by Mr. Percival that all Protestant public and high schools will also enjoy a holiday. McGill has made no move yet. I wonder what King George's reactions would be if he were informed that McGill was the only educational institution to show indifference to the happy event.

I am,
Yours truly,
PRO PATRIA MORI.

The Editor,
McGill Daily,
Montreal.

Dear Sir,—
On reliable information received, I understand that the powers that be have decided that the students of this university are not to have a holiday on Thursday in honour of the forthcoming royal wedding. It seems to me that apart from any mere desire for a holiday as such, it would be fitting that an event of this nature get the recognition which is its due from the Royal Institution of Learning.

I remain,
Yours very truly,
DULCE et DEORUM.

was needed. The education of the doctor could be made more complete, and pre-graduation study encouraged. These conditions, in the opinion of Dame Campbell, would greatly lower the death-rate at child-birth, if they were carried to a successful conclusion.

Dame Campbell was introduced by Dr. Fleming, who briefly sketched her career. She was thanked by Dr. Chipman, who also praised the work done by her, and remarked in passing that Motherhood must be made fashionable, before much improvement can be brought about. 1200 women die each year in Canada from causes directly connected with childbirth. This rate, he said, is far too high. In conclusion, he asked why the Canadian Government did not hold 'prize mother' competitions rather than the such comparatively unimportant contests as those wherein 'prize pigs' were selected.

Other speakers were Dr. Maud Abbott, the Honorary President of the Society, Dr. A. H. Gordon, and Dr. Fraser. Dr. Fraser said that maternal services and child welfare activities need better organization in this country. The formal meeting was brought to a close with an expression of gratitude to Dame Campbell from one of the undergraduate members of the Society.

Rutgers Abolishes Inter-Class Enmity

New Brunswick, N.J.—Three movements designed to affect radically the student life at Rutgers university were initiated by undergraduates recently.

Following the student council's move to abolish the annual freshman parade, the interfraternity council recommended the removal of all freshman regulations, except for the wearing of the freshman hat and tie. Final action on this matter is in the hands of the student council.

Abolition of the parade removes the last vestige of inter-class warfare which began to decline on the campus about 1931. The removal of freshman regulations is recommended merely to give official recognition of the fact that such rules are no longer being enforced.

At the same time the interfraternity council petitioned the dean of men to permit fraternities to hold "open house" until 12 o'clock on Saturday nights. At present, girls are permitted in fraternities only at house parties or other special functions. If official sanction is given to the plan, girls may be entertained every Saturday night provided a petition naming chaperons for each "open house" be filed in advance with the dean.

The recommendation followed similar action by the student council.

Junior Polo Team Bows To M.A.A.A.

McGill Natators Crack in Second Stanza; Lose 7-3

REDMEN SUFFER DROP IN LEAGUE STANDING

McGILL'S Junior water polo team went down to a 7-3 defeat at the hands of the M.A.A.A. Reds last night. This trimming put a virtual wet blanket on the fine start made by the younger squad a few weeks ago.

Winners Open
Custell opened the scoring for the eventual winners, which was followed by a goal by Almon. Elliott reduced the advantage to one goal when he sunk a shot on a pass from Wilson. The score was soon 2-2 when Savage netted the ball on a solo effort. This ended the scoring in the first half with the play just about even.

The second half started with the play swinging rapidly from one half of the tank to the other but Almon soon put M.A.A.A. ahead as he scored a neat goal. Savage again tied the score, but the Peel Street boys soon took the lead when Mitcham scored twice. McGill seemed then to have stopped the former effective efforts which they had been showing all night, and Custell and Almon each put a shot past Gilmour. This half was featured by two penalties, one on Gibson and the other on Elliot. For the Redmen Savage, Elliot and Gilmour were best, although a fairly good game of polo was played by the whole team. Custell, Almon, Mitcham and Renaud were the pick of the opposition.

Ottawa Does A Phoenix

IT looks very much as if hockey is doing the Phoenix act in Ottawa, rising from the ashes of public lethargy to new heights of enthusiasm in the hearts of those sterling Capitolian burghers who are noted as partisan and partial to the home product in all the corners of the globe, yea, even unto the Bronx, where, we hear tell, infants are weaned on razors. The cause for all the civic excitement and pride is the municipal entry in the Senior Q.A.H.A. ice circuit, which includes, along with Ottawa, sextettes from McGill, Lafontaine, Verdun, Canadens, Royals, and Victorias, all of this city. The Barber Poles from the country's seat of government have established a virtual dictatorship over the other squads in the league, being undefeated so far in five starts. They played to a capacity audience last Saturday night in their own stamping grounds, meeting and defeating Bobby Bell's Redmen 3-1 in a thrill-packed contest that dissipated any lingering melancholia, if any remained, concerning the departure of the capitol city's late-lamented N.H.L. professional hockey team, which, by the way, is at the moment regaling St. Louis, the city of the Dippy Deans, with periodical displays of how to be a doormat in sixty-minute doses. We didn't see the game last Saturday, but according to our boss, Mr. Hicks, who covered it for the Daily, it was a humdinger all right; although it suffered horribly, he claims, from low visibility, both as to referees and rink conditions. Be that as it may, Doctor Bell's collection of veterans and youngsters gave the Senators no little opposition, and should, if they keep up their rapid improvement, reverse the decision on Forum ice.

Onward and Upward

THE Canadian Intercollegiate Athletic Union, according to its time-honoured custom of judicious planning and the development of a sound internal organization, is managing to escape the tide of discontent which seems to be undermining a sister organization, the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association. The C.I.A.U. held another of its semi-annual meeting last week-end in Kingston, and upon due application and subsequent investigation, all carried on in a thoroughly efficient and orderly manner. Queen's was admitted into the senior intercollegiate hockey league, and Ontario Agricultural College into the senior boxing, wrestling and fencing group, thereby making each circuit that much stronger, and competition correspondingly keener. But the glad hand stopped right there, and instead of getting a pat on the back, McMaster University was reprimanded for failing to send a squad to the invitation track meet in Toronto last month, and, in addition, refused admittance to senior rating. All of which goes to show that the C.I.A.U. is evidently in good hands. Among the more important dealings of the body were decisions to continue the playoff system in senior football, and to allow the winner of the senior hockey circuit to challenge for the Allan Cup, if they go desire. The organization also decided to retain its membership in the Canadian Rugby Union, although no intercollegiate championship football squad has been permitted to seek Dominion supremacy for several years now.

Student Osteopathy Again!

ONE of the finest athletic organizations on the campus, and therefore about the least appreciated by students, is Bert Light's class in ligament-wrenching, muscle-tearing and bone-crushing, euphemistically called the Boxing Club. This genial mentor of the Red ring forces conducts his osteopathic operations twice a week, on Tuesday and Thursday afternoons, at the Field House. Everybody is welcome, especially newcomers who are apt to be deceived by what appears to be the genial gleam in Mr. Light's cherubic countenance. The first thing on the program is entitled Limbering-Up, or Bury The Body In The Old Churchyard, during which each member of the class imitates a pretzel for twenty consecutive minutes, with various shapes being announced by the energetic coach, and everybody guesses what shape. Then time is called by the manager, who has been snoring loudly in a corner for the duration of the pretzel period, and after a rest consuming every bit of forty-five seconds, they stand the remains up against a wall, and invite the 135-lb. intercollegiate champ to dig in, and may the best man win. The funny part of the whole business is that you come back next day, asking for more. It must be the autumn air.

Shag Hawks Ball-hawks

THE Royal Ivory hunters did a fine piece of work down in Kentucky. We are glad to report. Led by our own Frank Shaughnessy, the local talent-hunters uncovered a couple of likely-looking prospects with a view to strengthening Montreal's gift to the International Baseball League, which is admittedly much in need of reinforcement. Del Bissonette, formerly with the Brooklyn Dodgers, and last season earning his bread and butter for services to the Baltimore Orioles and Albany Senators, is a veteran American of French extraction who should prove a valuable addition to the squad, and a capable aid to the Royals' chief first sacker Oscar Roettger. Gus Dugas, purchased from the Senators, will be used in right field, while the hurling staff has been augmented by one Vic Frazier, an ex-Detroit hireling. Ray Fritz, who pitched some good games at the Stadium last year, will again be on deck, trailing Detroit strings, unlike Frazier, who was purchased outright. The Tigers will send yet another man to the Montreal team, with catchers Reiber and Dessautels, or pitcher Phillips figuring as possibilities. From all indications, the Delorimer Street aggregation is out to make a definite bid for the International bunting. The fact that local fans fail to get delirious about a fifth-place club probably has something to do with it.

SOCCER PICTURE

Would all members of the First Team desiring a soccer picture please leave their order as early as possible at 3484 University St.

Earn Draw In Rousing Initial Tilt

Score 2-2; O'Brien, Letourneau Score For Redmen

WEST ENDERS KNOT COUNT TOWARDS END

THE City and District Hockey League played its first double-header of the season last night, when McGill's representatives in this Bushwhacking League played a two-all tie with Montreal West. This was the second game, the opener between Lachine and Verdun ending up 3-2 in favour of the former squad.

O'Brien Opens Scoring

All the goals were scored in the last period, as up till this time both defences had been too good for the forwards. The first Red tally came from the stick of Bill O'Brien, and a few minutes later the score was tied, Desrosiers putting it behind Pacaud. About half way through the period Charlie Letourneau put the Red team ahead again, but just before the final goal J. Burke evened things up.

The first period opened very fast and both teams kept up this pace throughout the game. The Redmen started out with O'Brien, Findlay and Byrne on the attack, Gorman and Doheny on the defence and Bob Pacaud in the nets. Neither defence gave the forwards many chances and when they did, the goalers always rose to the occasion. The period was very clean only one penalty being given.

Both Goalers Star

Throughout the second period the goalers had much more work to do especially Read of Montreal West who was obliged to make several miraculous saves and a number of catches to keep the Redboys from scoring. Both teams indulged in several four men rushes when their opponents were short handed.

Right from the start of the last period Goad was penalised for M. W. and while they were still somewhat disorganized O'Brien shot a fast one from the side of the rink which the goaler did not see. After five minutes of play the Montreal West squad tied it up on a high shot which hit the top bar at the back of the net. This goal was disputed but dispute was not upheld by the referees.

Letourneau Scores

Slightly more than half of the period was over when Byrne and Letourneau combined in a nice passing play which ended up in the latter scoring. With only a minute and a quarter to go J. Burke made it 2-2 and right after this Letourneau and Palmer took part in a mix up which ended in both of them receiving majors.

Pacaud turned in another fine game in the nets, and Gorman was very good on the defense. Doheny who started out on the defense was bothered with a pain and did not take part in most of the game. Crawford, O'Brien and Laurie Byrne were the pick of the forwards, all of whom however turned in a fine game. Read, Palmer, J. Burke and Desrosiers were the best for Montreal West. The team does not play next week, drawing a bye, its next game being with N.D.G. on December 10.

The Line-up

McGill: Goal, Pacaud; defense, Gorman and Letourneau; centre, Byrne; forwards, Findlay and O'Brien. Subs, Doheny, Crawford, Dadson, Elwood, Probert and Loftus.
Montreal West: Goal, Read; defense, Palmer and Goad; centre, L. Burke; forwards, J. Burke and Desrosiers. Subs, Richardson, Taylor, Probert, Hall Rochon and Scott.

First Period

No score.
Penalties: Gorman 10, Letourneau 15.

Second Period

No score.
Penalties: R. Probert and J. Probert.

Third Period

1.—McGill, O'Brien 1.00
2.—Montreal West, Desrosiers 5.00
3.—McGill, Letourneau (Byrne) 12.00
4.—Montreal West, J. Burke (Desrosiers) 18.45

Penalties: Goad, Burke, Palmer and Letourneau (majors).
Referees: Stew Kelly and Larry Carroll.

Schedule Drawn For Intermediate Cage Encounters

New Executive Named For Intermediate Intercollegiate League

AT a meeting held last week, the newly-elected officers of the Intermediate Intercollegiate Basketball League drew up the schedule of the games to be played during the coming season. The executive also announced that it was endeavouring to procure a shield as an award for the winning team.

Schedule

Dec. 15—McGill at Macdonald.
Jan. 19—U. of M. at Bishop's.
Jan. 19—Loyola at Macdonald.
Jan. 24—U. of M. at Macdonald.
Feb. 9—Macdonald at Bishop's.
Feb. 23—Bishop's at McGill.
Feb. 23—Bishop's at Macdonald.
Mar. 16—McGill at Bishop's.

This year Doug Jones and Bill Consiglio have been appointed as referees. They will officiate in Montreal games only. The officers elected are: President, F. Sharpe (Mac.); secretary, P. Lesage, (U. of M.); and the representatives of the teams participating are Van Wagner, Haslam, Kearns and Medine.

Plan Proposed

The McGill coach, F. M. Van Wagner, proposed a plan whereby as many as possible of the eastern Canada Universities should take part in a series of games to decide the college basketball champions. This plan will probably be carried out in the near future and it is hoped that it will include Toronto, Queen's, R. M. C., O. A. C., Bishop's, Loyola, U. of M., Ottawa, McGill and Macdonald, at least.

con as far as was revealed by his article in the Daily.

Sportsmanship is essential in any game and should be shown both by the spectator and the player. If credit be given where credit is due, then Mr. Hicks has failed to give a satisfactory commentary on the game—Ottawa having outplayed their rivals.

As an explanation of McGill's defeat, Mr. Hicks states that the rink was small and the atmosphere smoky. I do admit that the rink is somewhat smaller than the Forum, but the smoke menace was no greater than encountered at home. Both teams played under the same conditions and I believe that the explanation of McGill's defeat is simply that Ottawa has a stronger squad.

As a McGill student, I naturally wished to see our team win out, unlike Mr. Hicks, I did not let my enthusiasm prejudice my opinion of the game.

Better luck to McGill next time. Yours sincerely,

One Who Actually Saw the Game.
